Suppose the Company Representative was telling the truth and the Project really is for the benefit of an introduction service on the day they came in the mail. With his last gasp of self-confidence Barry. Using an assumed name and a post office box number which was not his, Smith wrote to a commission agent in Boston with whom he had never had any previous dealings. He mailed the letter, with the agent's address covered by one of his labels on which he had typed a fictitious address. The label detached itself in transit; the letter was delivered. When the agent replied, Smith was watching and read the letter as a secretary typed it. The agent followed his instruction to mail his reply in an envelope without return address. The owner of the post office box turned it in marked "not here"; it went to the dead-letter office and was returned in due time, but meanwhile Smith had acknowledged the letter and had mailed, in the same way, a huge amount of cash. In subsequent letters he instructed the agent to take bids for components, plans for which he enclosed, from electronics manufacturers, for plastic casings from another, and for assembly and shipping from still another company. Through a second commission agent in New York, to whom he wrote in the same way, he contracted for ten thousand copies of an instruction booklet in four colors. . . because when you notice the red numbers jumping in the console to your left, it is as if the whole house. . . body seems to glitter with more than reflected light Her skin already gleams with moisture. The bikers backed off very quickly. . . wounds of his eyes. She turned away and said, "You may go out now. It is safe. He will not hunt you. I sat up so fast I almost fell out of the chair. I gave her a long, hard stare, but her neutral expression didn't flicker. "You're kidding." Her eyebrows rose a millimeter. "Was she a slinky blonde? 1*." "Well," said Jack, "after I could not find my way home, I decided I should try and find the pieces. So. I called Amaada later. I expected to find her herself, yesterday already forgotten, but she still sounded anxious. "Matthew, can you come up?" . . "You're right, of course. And in the only two other real space emergencies since that time, all hands. But Lea asked gently, "What did it say? I have studied the languages of men and perhaps I can help. What did it say?" . . It's no secret, due to an inflated publicity campaign, that a nice little movie about a nice big ape called King Kong was remade into a not-so-nice big movie which was a veritable textbook on how not, and maybe why not, to remake a movie that was close to perfect for what it was. Much of the subtler pleasure of the early King Kong comes from its period charm? the naivet?, the wonderfully . . . preten-tious dialogue, even the oonga-boonga black natives. All this could not in any way survive modernization; "big screen" (whatever that means these days) and color did not make up the difference, nor for the loss of other wonderfully amusing bits from a studio jungle full of dinosaurs to Fay Wray's uncovered bosom. . . E.R.B. It had enabled her to stop fighting so hard against the screaming panic she wanted to unleash. It
