My policy was to encourage their leaders out into the open by a demonstration of peaceful coexistence, and you went along with it. Withdraw your statement.". know.. "So how does anyone know who to listen to?" Jay asked, every bit as mystified as his father.. "I agree, I agree," Lechat told them. "But we only know what we know, and we can only do what we can do. Surely doing so is not going to make things any worse. Will you try it?" Before anyone could reply, Colman said, "There might be a way to make it better." Everyone looked at him. He swept his hands around quickly. "There is a way we could get the message out to everybody, all at the same time-to the public, the Military-everyone." He looked around again. The others waited. "Through the Communications Center up in the ship," he said. "Every channel and frequency of the Terran net is concentrated there, including the military network and the emergency bands. We could broadcast from there on all of them simultaneously. You couldn't make much more impact than that." He sat back and looked around again to invite reactions...sand and the faint alkaline fragrance of the hardy plants that grow in parched lands...well-balanced, responsible, and especially good-smelling people practiced aromatherapy and toxin...sound arises, faint but unmistakable: helicopter rotors beating the thin desert air...beyond the horizon...peers between two towers of dishes, and sees one of his pursuers about fifteen feet away...The trailer is oddly constructed, with a pair of large doors on the side, instead of at the back.
